Everybody's Busy

There are 435 seats in the present house of representatives. A few of these are vacant because of death and illness. But when only 250 votes, or less, are recorded on such important issues as amendments to the draft bill it's apparent that many more seats are vacant because the congressmen sent to Washington to sit in them are too busy to be there.

Toward the end of congressional sessions attendance always falls off in congress, especially in the house of representatives. There have been times when the party whips were put to it to keep a quorum (one more than half the total membership) in Washington so votes on public issues would be official. Members of the house, as everybody knows, are overworked; they have many things to do besides attend the sessions.

But the matter is worth bringing up at this time because of the standing indictment against millions of potential voters who can't find time to go to the polls. Their failure to do so is blamed on indifference to what is going on. They are warned that failure to vote on important issues amounts to undermining representative democracy.

Is it possible that voters who are too busy to go to the polls are just as busy as members of congress who are too busy to go to the floor of the house of representatives to cast their votes on vital public issues?

Votes In The Bag

The Dunn survey, which has hammered for years on the theme that federal employees in key states can control the outcome of national elections, is still hammering.

Rogers C. Dunn, who prepares the survey, believes each federal employee accounts for an average of four votes. On this basis, he contends that President Truman, if nominated, could carry New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and California with a regular Democratic vote of as little as 39 percent in California, ranging upward to 47 percent in Indiana. The balance of the votes needed would represent the federal payroll in these states.

On a national average, he says, the payroll vote of 2,000,000 federal employees would give the Democratic candidate 52 percent of the popular vote, though the regular Democratic vote amounted to as little as 44 percent.

The underlying reason for the federal bureaucracy's growth, Mr. Dunn believes, is the practice of paying bureau chiefs in proportion to the number of employees under their supervision. This blocks congressional efforts to pare the payroll, as attested by the fact the federal employment total has edged up past the 2,000,000 mark despite the intention of congress to make wholesale reductions in the bureaucracy this year.

Why The Veto Was Overridden

In overriding the President's veto of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill, congress made into law a measure exempting carriers from antitrust laws in rate cases. It was a bill that had negligible opposition. The railroads requested it. Associations of rail users supported them.

Interstate carriers operate under the transportation act of 1940. The Interstate Commerce commission is the regulatory body. Heretofore the ICC hadn't reviewed agreements between carriers until after they had been put into effect. The new law requires advance approval.

The movement of rail freight across the nation proceeds much as if the whole rail network were owned by one company. Transportation operates to a considerable extent under monopoly conditions which call for regulation. The ICC is providing the regulation.

The commission has full control over rates and can bring criminal prosecution where necessary. Sponsors of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill reasoned that carriers shouldn't be prosecuted for agreements approved by the regulatory body created to control them. One public agency instructed to prosecute what another agency has approved could only add another bureaucratic snarl to the already complex system of federal offices and agencies.

End of The Basing Point

Discussions of the basing point principle of freight charges have brought forth the observation that the postal system is the most common example of the basing point idea. It costs just as much to send a letter from New York to Pittsburgh as from New York to San Francisco. Parcel post rates are fixed on a zone basis regardless of the distance a package goes within the zone.

By the same token, business, notable industry, has used the basing point system in fixing prices. Steel made in Pittsburgh has cost the same in Fort Smith, Ark., as in Cincinnati. But in a case against a cement manufacturer, the supreme court has now held that the basing point system is illegal. This means that the farther a cement buyer is from the kilns, the higher the cost will be.

If business is to be transacted on a cost-plus-freight basis, the nation's industrial map is due for violent readjustment. Producers will have to decentralize or concentrate on business within their locality. California's tiny but thriving steel industry will be able to fill west coast orders better than Pittsburgh's mills.

There probably will be price wars in areas where production exceeds local requirements. Producers in mountainous areas can raise prices as much as the traffic will bear. Producers in distant areas may raise in so far as they can do so without bringing antitrust action.

There are likely to be some of the effects of ending the basing point system. For the moment, however, Federal Trade commission leaders will reach in a healthier industrial pattern and lower prices for consumer.

No Opposition

In these contentious days, it isn't often that a bill of importance goes through congress unopposed, but it happened in the case of increasing railroads' pensions.

The increase, entailed in an amendment to the original railroad retirement act of 1937, provides pension increases of from 20 to 25 percent. It was approved by the American Association of Railroads and the Railway Labor Executives association.

The raise nicks no one's pocketbook, which explains the lack of opposition. The additional money comes out of the retirement system reserve fund which has reached such proportions that it can bear a greater burden.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

IT is probable that some curious, strange, idealistic or imaginative stroke or revelation might have power to set in motion a depressing or devastating obstacle, but capping the climax by a sensational coup, in which intuition, hunch or an "unaccountable" lead, could prove constructive and heartening.

Such might be a new technique, born of shrewd or subtle undercurrent, or the intriguing intervention of a far-seeing friend.

It would be well to heed the "still small voice" in emergency.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should not be surprised if some strange intervention, born of misty urges or curious ideas rather than realistic ideas, should prove of most prevalent climax in a disturbed and critical moment.

An intuition, hunch, or emotional prompting might open sales to subtle and intriguing adventures. The darkness of an inexplicable nature could prove of realistic value.

A child born on this day may have hidden depths of mind and feeling, with power lines or lightning to serve in crisis or emergencies. Ideas might be come realistic by proper cultivation or inner vision.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Inviting Sleep With Sedatives

BY HERMAN N. BUNDSEN, M.D.

THE heavy consumption, during recent years, of sleep-producing drugs indicates that more and more people, finding the pursuit of sleep difficult, are seeking in these preparations quick passage to the land of dreams.

This should not be so because sleep is a natural thing which should come of itself. The fact that so many people must woo it by artificial means is probably due to the many worries and strains which accompany modern life. Of course, sleeplessness may be due to other causes. A room which is too hot or too cold, improper covering, an uncomfortable bed, lack of fresh air, outside noises or too much light all can interfere with sleep. But by far the most frequent cause is the bad habit of inviting all one's worries to share one's bed.

Not a Cure

The use of sleeping pills alone is not a cure for insomnia or sleeplessness, but, as a temporary help, such preparations are useful when employed under the direction of a physician.

It has been suggested that such medicines will function better if they are enteric coated, that is, if the drug has a coating which will not dissolve in the stomach but in the intestine. With such a preparation, the total dose necessary to produce sleep may be much less than with the non-coated variety. Furthermore, the so-called hangover which comes from the use of such drugs is reduced or eliminated. Since smaller amounts are required, there is less likelihood of their becoming habit-forming.

Sedative Drugs

Before these sedative drugs can be given, it must be determined what type of sleeplessness is present. For example, some persons have difficulty in falling asleep at first but, after they fall asleep, they sleep soundly. Others fall asleep easily but get restless and awaken after several hours, and there are still others who sleep fitfully and do not get enough sleep.

Those in the first group, it is suggested, may benefit from such a preparation as phenobarbital which is enteric-coated and is given about three or four hours before bedtime. Those in the third group will need only the one tablet on retiring.

Group of Patients

A group of patients with insomnia, treated in this way, were found to require about half as much of the sleep-producing drugs, when given in the enteric-coated form and in the manner outlined, as when other preparations were used.

Of course, anyone with persistent sleeplessness should have a careful study made by his physician to determine the cause, so that the most effective treatment may be employed.

Must Have Money To Back Traffic Mishap

CINCINNATI, June 18—All provisions of the Ohio Financial Responsibility law of the state Traffic Code must be complied with if motorists are to limit liability for accidents occurring when automobiles are operated by minor sons, a common pleas judge has ruled.

Judge Otis R. Hess, in an opinion yesterday, held motorists must comply with the law which requires deposit and maintenance of proof of financial responsibility.

He issued the ruling in the suit of Mrs. Fern L. Hill against Samuel Harris for $100,000 for the death of her husband. Her suit alleges the death resulted from an accident involving a car driven by Harris' son Robert, 16.

Harris has sought to have the amount of damages in four suits limited to the amount of an insurance policy he held.

The judge ruled policies must be on deposit with the state registrar of motor vehicles.

The four suits against Harris total $180,400. There were filed by Mrs. Hill and the fourth by Pearl A. Schreier.

Send English Girl For Town Birthday

BURTON, June 18—Burton, England, for which this Geauga county village was named, is sending "an attractive young lady" by airplane to help celebrate the Ohio town's sesqui-centennial Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Mary Dell Whitfield, 18, is scheduled to leave London airport tomorrow, arrive at LaGuardia field in New York Saturday morning and be met at Cleveland airport Saturday afternoon by Burton village officials.

Mayor E. J. Shanower, who for years has been exchanging Christmas greetings with the mayor of Burton, England, invited the English mayor to send a representative to the local celebration. The Ohio town offered to finance the trip.

In accepting, A. H. Blake, secretary of education in the Overseas village, wrote to Shanower:

"The selection committee has chosen Miss Mary Dell Whitfield. She is 18 and left boarding school last term. She is a very charming young lady, coming from an excellent home and she looks forward to this visit with the greatest eagerness and interest."

Miss Whitfield is expected to remain here through the summer and in late August attend another sesqui-centennial—that of Geauga county which is to be held then in connection with the county fair.

Governor Duff Is Sure of Delegation

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 18 — Pennsylvania's Gov. H. Duff is confident today of spiking any deal involving the 73-member delegation will lead into the Republican national convention.

The governor is perturbed by reports that National Committeeman Mason Owlett is bargaining on behalf of the delegation with leadership of the delegation with Gov. Thomas E. Duff, but believes he can wield enough power to upset the maneuver.

Gov. Duff may challenge Owlett at a preliminary caucus Sunday night in Philadelphia, but a show-up probably will not come until after a favorite son vote for Pennsylvania's Sen. Edward Martin.

The governor's personal preference for the GOP presidential nomination will be disclosed to the delegation after favorite son balloting.

The first liberal Pennsylvania governor in a decade, Gov. Duff wants to nominate a candidate free of old line conservatism. He is understood to object to Gov. Owlett's "reactionary" but only Gov. Duff knows whether he would go along with the New Yorker's bid.

Gov. Duff is friendly with Stassen and probably would not object to him. Taft as the GOP standard-bearer because of the Ohio Senator's stand on the European Recovery program.

Democrats To Meet

COLUMBUS, June 18 — Albert A. Reisman, Democratic national committeeman, has called Ohio's 66 delegates to the Democratic national convention to meet here at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The delegates will organize and recommend candidates for the national committee to the Philadelphia convention.

Mrs. Marie Dixon Low of Warren is national committeewoman from Ohio. Both Horstman and Mrs. Low are expected to be re-elected to the national committee.

168 Meters in Use

It will be noted that collections have fallen off a bit from 1947. This was explained by Chief Bert Gault as due to the decreased parking on S. Broadway.

The transfer of the Kroger store and the closing of the Pulla store has cut down the revenue on that street alone more than $50 a month, he said.

At present, only 168 of the 178 meters are in operation, several having been removed to make room for city bus stops. However, Gault said, it is planned to install the other seven meters on S. State st. next week. The meters will be placed east of the Arrough building where the street was widened.

Jack Hedley, vice president in charge of operations for United, set up an emergency office in one of the buildings where no meters were shaken as Capt. George Warner, Jr., chief of Westmont, R.C. roared away from the automobile wreckage which extended all the way into the street.

The accident, being not more than 100 feet off the ground, was described as a "medium" landing. The car of the motorist caught fire. It burst through the wreckage, hit the concrete wall and rolled over the side of the building. The car was found on the "Mountain" about 100 feet from the street.

"I have a hunch that about 50 feet in the air," said Capt. Hedley, "in conditions. This whole thing was a little bit odd."

The crash did not occur in the open air of downtown and the investigation is being conducted by the local police.

to have something to say about his position as possible candidate on his arrival here, probably Sunday afternoon.

Some of those close to him said that, unless he changes his mind, Vandenberg will reiterate that he is not a candidate, does not want the nomination and will not continue in a draft. But, as before, they said he will not "Shermanize" himself by saying that he would not accept the party nomination.

The general impression among early arriving delegates is that the boom for Vandenberg has slumped materially from the heights it reached two weeks ago.

They credit this to the feeling of some delegates that they no longer can wait for some affirmative sign that the Michigan senator is available. Added to this has been what some of Vandenberg's friends call a rumor campaign that (1) he will support some other candidate and (2) that his health isn't good enough for the strenuous job of the presidency.

While these maneuvers were going on, Dewey supporters busied themselves building up the contention that the New Yorker is all but in.

Canton Lady Loses 36 Lbs. Says Renne Is Fine

Mrs. M. Elder, 1419 5th St. NE, Canton, Ohio writes us, "I am 38 years of age and when I started taking Renne Concentrate I weighed 174 lbs. Now I weigh 138 and my dress size has changed from 30 to 16. I like Renne for reducing for it does not upset my stomach as other preparations have."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Renne is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Renne. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take just two tablespoons a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and gain again slendor, more graceful curves—if you're serious about inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Renne—no starvation diet—no pinched diet list to buy—no vitamins to swallow against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Renne.

WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

IT'S a man's world, all right. Just look at the difference in these descriptive words and phrases, depending on whether one is referring to a man or a woman.

If he doesn't marry, he's a "bachelor of the house." If she runs it she doesn't marry she's an "old maid."

When it's his night out he's "out with the boys." When it is her night out she's at a "hen party."

What he hears at the office is "news." What she hears at a bridge party is "gossip."

If he runs the family he is "head of the house." If she runs it she "wears the pants in that family."

If he is overly-sollicitous of her he is a "devoted husband." If she is overly-sollicitous of him he is "hen-pecked."

If he keeps his eye on her at a party he is an "attentive husband." If she sticks close to him she is a "possessive wife."

MIDDLE-AGE DIFFERENCE
In middle age he is "in the prime of life" or "at the peak of his career." At the same age she's "no spring chicken."

If he is an easy spender he "doesn't deny his family anything." If she doesn't count the pennies she's "extravagant" or a "poor manager."

If he hasn't any small talk he's "the quiet type." If she hasn't any she is "mousy."

It all depends on one thing—whether you're speaking of a man or a woman.

When vegetables are stored in the refrigerator they should be put into an appropriate container or wrapped in waxed paper or aluminum foil. Such care will help them to remain fresh in appearance and flavor.

Honey makes a soft, delicate white frosting for a cake to be served the day it is made. Beat an egg white with a dash of salt until it can hold soft peaks; then pour one-half cup of honey over the egg white in a thin stream, beating constantly as you do so. Continue to beat until the frosting holds its shape well—about four minutes.

At Ease, Draftee! New Army May Be Enjoyable

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — At ease; . . . you couple of hundred thousand guys between 19 and 35 years old who are about to be drafted. Don't look so scared. You've got a surprise in store for you. Army life, 1948-style, isn't going to be half bad. You might even enjoy it. First let's have a few words from your future commanding officer, Gen. Omar Bradley. He doesn't say much, but he has a reputation for keeping his word:

"The peacetime draft invests the Army with a formidable responsibility to make good use of these years we are borrowing from your time. This we shall do to the best of our ability, so that not only the nation as a whole will benefit, but you, yourselves, will profit from your service."

Let's get some facts straight right off the bat. The chances are that none of you will get into the Air Force if you wait to be drafted. You might make "fly boy" by enlisting. And it's doubtful if any more than a handful will get in the Navy to see the world. The whole idea of this draft was to put more men in the Army.

The day you take that oath you become the highest paid conscripted man in history.

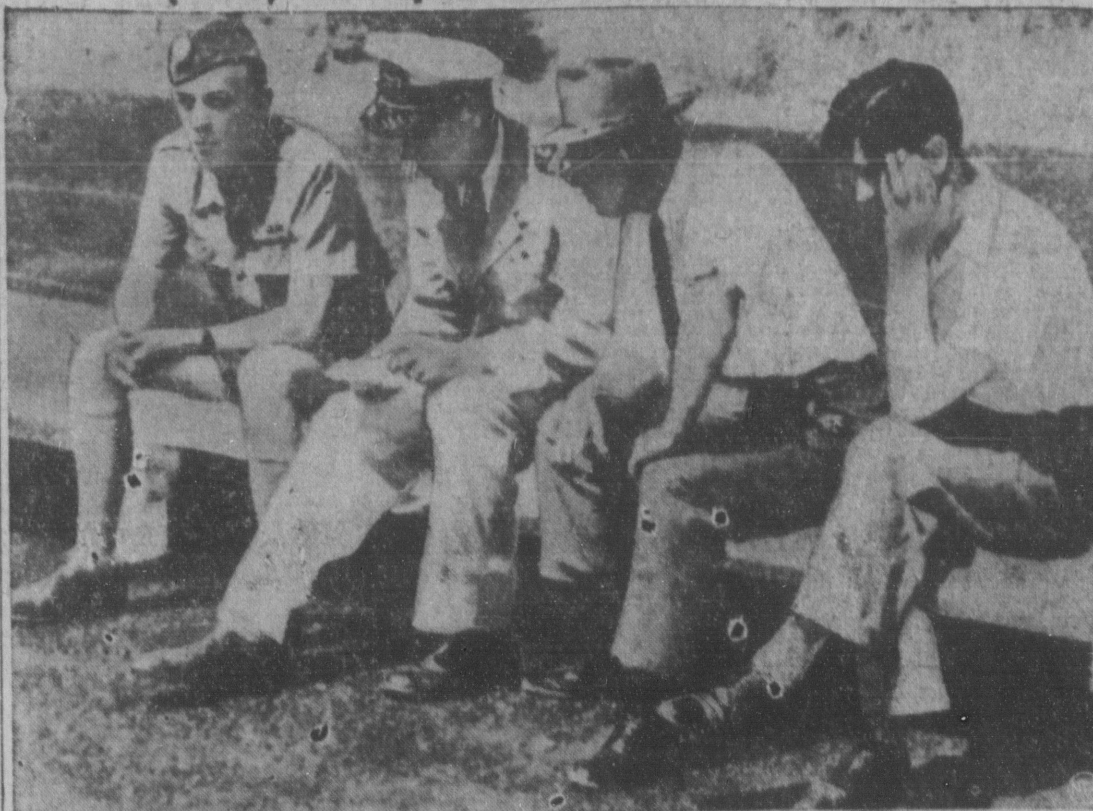

Before you're worth a picket to the Army they give you $75 a month, probably more than most of you have ever had in your pocket at one time. After your basic training, which will be eight weeks for the first bunch and maybe 13 weeks later, you're on your own as far as getting raises.

A private first class gets $80, a corporal $90, a buck sergeant $100 and a top sergeant $165. You can have some of that heavy sugar sent home each month, or applied on the best life insurance bargain you'll ever get in your life, the government's National Service Life Insurance.

About those raises, one of the biggest surprises the Army has in store for you is a brand new deal called a "career plan." No army in history has ever had anything quite like it. Remember your big brother telling you how a guy got promoted in the Army during World War II? He probably had a couple of unprintable phrases to describe the process.

Well, that's all different now. You qualify for most promotions by taking oral and written tests. Giving the lieutenant your best girl's telephone number won't help anymore. It's a question of study and work if you want more money, including getting a commission. The chances are that if you have graduated from high school or have had some col-

Ready to Inspect UN Truce Observance

Prior to departure for truce observance investigations in Palestine, UN representatives confer with UN mediator Count Folke Bernadotte in Haifa. Left to right are Count Bernadotte, U. S. Naval Capt. Since the Jews are prepared to begin informal discussions looking toward an indefinite extension of the truce, Bernadotte has indicated he hopes to bring Israeli and Arab leaders together at his headquarters on the island of Rhodes. Shift Seen Possible In Pennsylvania Vote

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 18—Republican presidential hopefuls today sensed a possible shift in control of Pennsylvania's important 73-member delegation to the GOP national convention.

Despite Gov. James H. Duff's "hand-off" warning, overtures were being made to conservative leaders for support of the powerful bloc after favorite son balloting in Philadelphia next week.

Campaign strategists for Sen. Robert A. Taft, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and Harold E. Stassen are bidding quietly for the delegation's backing after its initial ballot for U. S. Sen. Edward Martin, Pennsylvania's favorite son.

Duff has been catapulted into a behind-the-scenes battle for control of the delegation by his arbitrary stand against commitments. His strong stand was taken prior to his election to head the delegation.

Duff's trail-making indicates he leans toward U. S. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg to head the ticket.

Miners Injured When Collision In Pit Occurs

WELCH, W. Va., June 18—Ten coal miners were injured and another was killed early today in an underground collision.

G. R. Jennings, superintendent of the Olga Coal Company's mine at Caretta, six miles west of here, said that apparently "a motor got loose and ran into a man-trip." Miners said a train of 10 cars had crashed into a motor hauling equipment and that the latter then collided with a train of three cars carrying miners.

The mine is owned by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Prisoners Finish 'Dog Biscuit' Diets

NEW YORK, June 18—Eleven gaunt, bearded soldiers were back on a near-normal diet today, after living on "dog biscuits" and water for five weeks.

In the period during which they ate only the Army's experimental "survival ration," these developments were noted:

After the first 10 days, the soldiers became cross, acutely sensitive and irritable.

Thereafter, the men's nervousness tapered off to a general lassitude.

Observers found that the soldier's conversation was focused almost exclusively on food.

After a while there wasn't much talk of any kind.

The men reported numerous dreams of food, Sunday dinners and lavish banquets. One soldier said he repeatedly had "ice-box" nightmares.

The men tore down pin-up girls they had pasted on the walls of their quarters and replaced them with magazine picture pin-ups of juicy steaks, fried chicken and baked hams.

At first the men played table-tennis, sunned on a nearby beach and engaged in other activities, but toward the end they spent most of their time simply resting.

All the men lost weight, the amounts varying up to 30 pounds.

During the test, conducted by the Army, each soldier received 900 calories a day, compared to the 2,500 received by the average New Yorker.

'Kidnaped' Mother Just Went On Trip

ORLEANS, Ind., June 18—Mrs. Hallie Goodpasture, 24-year-old Orleans housewife, was back home today after being sought for nine days as a kidnapping victim.

Adrian Parks, a 25-year-old neighbor who was charged by Walker Goodpasture with kidnapping his wife, is being held in the Orange county jail at Paoli.

But Sheriff Ben Nadell said Mrs. Goodpasture signed a statement in which she said Parks "did not kidnap me."

"I ran away with him," Nadell quoted her as saying. He said she added, "I had to return. I wanted to see the children."

The Goodpastures have two sons, Garry 8, and Paul 2.

Mrs. Goodpasture and Parks returned here last night. Sheriff Nadell said she told of a nine-day trip through Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, back through Illinois and Indiana to Lima, Ohio, and then back home.

He said the two tried to get jobs in Lima before starting for home.

FM Radio Permits Vacated In Mansfield

WASHINGTON, June 18—Permits granted to Unity Corp., Inc., for new FM stations at Springfield and Mansfield, Ohio, were vacated yesterday by the Communications Commission.

FCC said its action resulted from a request by Edward Lamb, Toledo attorney and principal stockholder in Unity Corporation.

Lamb told the commission he wanted to concentrate on other stations which he controls in the Standard Radio and Television fields.

The Mansfield News-Journal, which has sought a permit for a FM station at Mansfield, filed strong protests with FCC over issuance of the Mansfield permit to Lamb.

Several weeks ago Rep. Herbert (D-La.) criticized Lamb for his writing about Russia and the FCC for radio grants to Lamb in recent years.

Skin Bank In Use

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Albuquerque has a "skin bank." University of New Mexico students offered skin for a grafting operation when an 11-year-old girl was badly burned. The skin was not needed in that case, but it led to setting up a "bank" for future emergencies.

The skin bank consists of the names of persons willing to donate skin for grafting.

Complaints were received that song birds are being shot in parts of town by juveniles with rifles and air guns. There is an ordinance against shooting within the corporate limits, which may be invoked.

Workers Accept Hike, Agree To Work Harder

TOLEDO, June 18—CIO Auto Workers employed by Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., voted yesterday to accept company wage increase offers of 13 cents an hour to non-production workers and five cents an hour to piece workers.

The increases affect about 9,000 employees. James D. Mooney, company president, estimated the pay increases will cost approximately $1,700,000 annually. However, he said there will be no immediate increase in prices of Willys-Overland vehicles. "Under the new contract our employees have agreed to take their coats off and go to work to keep our costs from going up," Mooney said.

GOP PLATFORM MAY URGE VOTE CHANGE

PHILADELPHIA, June 18—The Republican party in its 1948 platform may come out for a change in the method of electing U. S. Presidents.

At least the idea has strong support in the person of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, chairman of the party's resolutions committee, which is drafting the platform.

At present, all the electoral college votes of each state must be cast for the candidate who wins a majority in that state, even if it's a majority of only one vote.

Lodge wants to change this so that each state's electoral college votes would be split between the candidates in the same proportion as the popular vote was split.

Taft, Vandenberg Chat Reported Now

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 18—Friends of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) has personally assured the Ohioan he is remaining aloof in the rivalry between Taft and Governor Thomas L. Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination.

Neither Vandenberg nor Taft would comment, but those who insisted they know said the exchange resulted from a New York Times report on Wednesday that Vandenberg had told friends he would work smoothly as a team with Dewey as President and John Foster Dulles, a Dewey adviser, as secretary of state.

Vandenberg, who has said he does not want the GOP nomination himself, has declined comment upon the announced candidates. But he is reported to have discussed the Times' dispatch with Taft because the Ohioan's backers thought it indicated Vandenberg support for Dewey.

The Taft people quoted the Michigan senator as having told Taft that all talk about Taft's being a weak candidate was ridiculous. And further that any Republican nominated at Philadelphia next week will be a certain winner.

BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

Too many women are forced to work in fields, neglecting their families.

Report by UN Agricultural Mission in Red Dominated Poland Shows Nation's Farmers Are In Dire Straits

Through FAO missions, western nations still have contact with Communist-dominated peoples behind the Iron Curtain. An FAO (Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN) mission is a group of experts, usually from several countries, which goes to a country to study its food, agriculture, forestry and fisheries problems. It goes only at the request of the country's government. These pictures are from the report, just released, of the FAO mission to Poland. Its 10 experts spent two months in Poland last summer. They traveled some 45,000 miles within the country. They reported: Polish agriculture, food supply and forestry are in a state of emergency. Too many people are tied to farms. Thousands of women, who should be tending their families, serve as field hands. A great dearth of farm machinery. Lack of fertilizer reduces vital crops. Housing is critically inadequate. Farmers are over-taxed, underpaid. Cattle are tubercular and milk distribution unsanitary.

Wrecked house provides this woman's only stove.

Farm family's home in a devastated region, built of salvaged wood and grass thatch.

Dairy woman pours milk, from unsanitary cans, into bottle brought by girl buyer at right.

Lumber production for housing must be doubled, says FAO. Some sawmills have so little yard space they can't operate to capacity.

Unveil New Ford At Hine Motor Co. Today

The H. I. Hine Motor Co. with 6,500 other dealers in the nation today displayed the new 1949 Ford at its showrooms, 570 S. Broadway. One would never know that the new model is the great-granddaughter of old Tin Lizzie. The car is lighter, lower, longer and more expensive than old models. Interior and exterior color is imaginative, but there is a marked reduction in the use of flashy chrome finishing inside and out that characterized so many post-war cars. The styling is described as "functional," with a low silhouette which is unbroken from the blunt nose to the fenderless rear. The style change is emphasized by the large windshield and windows.

LEETONIA

The Mary Greenamyer Missionary society of the Presbyterian church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Earl H. Marshall Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Herbert F. Sherwood had charge of the devotionals. Mrs. Sarah K. Rush read a paper on "The Philippines." Mrs. Eva S. G. Ashley read a paper on "China." Mrs. Ficus had charge of the "Queries." Mrs. Delbert Shriver entertained the employees of Weikart's grocery at her home Monday evening at a picnic supper for the pleasure of Miss June Weikart bride-elect of Elwood Zeigler. Miss Weikart was presented with a shower of gifts. Mrs. J. H. McDonald entertained bridge club associates at her home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. John Clunen has received an announcement of the birth of a daughter, Susan Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Merrill of Bellefleur, Calif., on May 28. Mrs. Merrill is the former Anna Garrett of Leetonia.

CHECK POISONING OF 11-YEAR-OLD

CINCINNATI, June 18—Investigation into the poison death of a fifth-grade girl continued today, but Police Chief Charles Fritz of suburban Norwood did not disclose where he has sent two detectives.

Chief Fritz last night said Detectives Richard Stone and Meredith Dockum had left for an unannounced destination to investigate what he termed a "very hot angle." Mrs. Mary Clay Watts, whose husband, Willis, and 11-year-old daughter Barbara Ann, died of poison, began her fifth day of incarceration. She is under indictment on a charge of murder in the death of her daughter.

GE ANNOUNCES NEW PRICE INCREASES

NEW YORK, June 18—The General Electric Company has ordered pay increases, ranging from five to 12 per cent, for numerous household articles and industrial products.

Charles E. Wilson, company president, said yesterday the price boosts will be effective immediately.

He said the move was made necessary by wage increases, higher freight rates and advanced costs of materials.

The company last week granted an eight per cent pay increase to 125,000 members of the CIO United Electrical workers employed at GE plants across the country.

The advanced prices will be tagged on a variety of items ranging from refrigerators to small electric motors.

Wilson said, however, that many articles produced by the company are not affected.

Other products included on the new price list are electric ranges, water heaters, standard washing machines, table model television sets, electric mixers, switchgear and distributor transformers.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 18 — The Democrats and Republicans are going to promise you, the voter, a lot of things this year.

They'll do it in their party platforms, carefully worded and worked out in their conventions at Philadelphia this summer. They'll say:

"Here are the things we'll do or try to do in the next four years if you elect us to run the government."

Already Republicans are huddling to manufacture a platform to dangle before the voters at their convention which opens June 21.

The Democrats, you can be sure, will put in a lot of work on their platform before they unveil it at the Democratic convention July 12.

But if history is any guide to the future, a lot of those promises won't be kept. No matter which party is elected in November.

IF YOU DOUBT THIS, just look for instance, at the promises the parties made in their Chicago platforms of 1944.

The two platforms differed a bit. For one thing, the Democrats' was fairly short, the Republicans' very long and detailed.

Maybe the Democrats thought they could be brief and win because President Roosevelt was still alive in 1944 and pretty sure of reelection.

The Republicans, out of control since 1932, took a lot more time in hammering their platform together.

Right here a Democrat or Republican may jump up and say, "Look here. Don't blame my party for failure to keep its promises. The other side blocked us."

But the point is that both parties, in the four years since 1944, have had an equal chance to make good because—

From 1944 until 1946 the Democrats ran congress. The Republicans have been running it since 1946.

The voters don't often get such a chance to point a finger at both parties equally and say "why didn't you deliver?"

For in other years one party usually controls Congress a full four years and must take blame or credit for what's done or left undone.

Some of the 1944 promises were kept. For example:

Both parties promised to put this country into world organization to keep peace. They worked together and put us into the United Nations.

Both parties promised an income tax cut, and taxes were cut. True, it was the Republican-controlled Congress which rammed through a big cut over President Truman's veto.

The President argued that he wanted to cut taxes but in a different way.

Both parties said they wanted to see an independent Jewish state in Palestine. (President Truman recognized the new Jewish state without any say-so from Congress.)

But there were plenty of things both parties promised but didn't do. For example:

Civil Rights. The Republican platform very specifically promised action on wiping out the poll tax, passing an anti-lynching law and setting up a fair employment practice commission.

The 1944 Democratic platform, far more vaguely, suggested doing something about civil rights, meaning more civil rights for negroes.

(The Southern Democrats were pretty touchy on this issue in 1944 so the platform vagueness was an effort to appease them.

But, vague or definite, no civil rights law has been passed since 1944.

The Democrats very carefully said they "recommended" action to get equal rights for women. This hasn't been done.

The Republicans promised to bring under the benefits of social security all those people not now covered. They haven't done it.

Both parties promised—in an extremely vague way—to do something about letting Hawaii and Alaska become states. That hasn't happened.

Some of these promises made for the four years following 1944 probably will appear again in the 1948 platforms. Some of them may even pop up again in 1952.

EAST LIVERPOOL BRIDGE TO BE FREE

COLUMBUS, June 18—The state bridge commission, working itself out of a job, hinted today that it wouldn't be too many years before Ohio's last toll bridge became free.

In its annual report, the commission refused to set a date for freeing the East Liverpool-Chester, W. Va., bridge, but said:

"It is fair to let the figures speak for themselves. At the end of 1947, the state bridge commission had paid off $1,068,000 of the $2,135,000 in bonds originally issued to buy the East Liverpool-Chester bridge. This left $1,075,000 in bonds still to be retired. The balance in the sinking fund amounted to $240,235.67. There was not only enough money to meet the $125,000 in serial bonds maturing Oct. 1, 1948, but also sufficient surplus to call for redemption in April an additional $125,000 of the term bonds which are not due until 1953."

Chairman Walter B. Hill of East Liverpool reported the bridge had a net profit of $235,878.97 in 1947, as compared with $237,978.86 in 1946.

The commission was established in 1937 to buy and administer the Fort Steuben bridge at Steubenville and the Pomeroy-Mason, W. Va., bridges across the Ohio river and the Sandusky Bay bridge. The East Liverpool-Chester bridge was bought in 1938.

The Sandusky Bay and Pomeroy-Mason bridges were freed of tolls in 1946 and the Fort Steuben last summer.

To Go To OSU

ELYRIA, June 18—Vic Janowicz, Elyria High school's All-Ohio quarterback, plans to enroll at Ohio State university this fall. Janowicz, a nine-letterman at Elyria, announced his plans yesterday.

Bearden To Hurl For Tribe Tonight

CLEVELAND, June 18 — Left-hander Gene Bearden, top percentage hurler on the Cleveland Indians' mound staff, will uncork his maza magic tonight in an attempt to halt the league-leaders' four-game losing streak against the runner-up Philadelphia Athletics.

The Indians, who have seen their pitching staff battered four straight times, suffered another defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox yesterday, 5-4.

Don Black, sidelined two weeks with a fractured toe, returned to action in quest of his third victory, but was sidetracked again in the first inning because of wildness. Steve Gromek put out the fire after three runs crossed the plate on two hits.

The Tribe rallied to tie the score in the bottom half of the frame on singles by Larry Doby, manager Lou Boudreau and Joe Gordon, sandwiched around Hank Edwards' double. Taking advantage of an error by Edwards that would have returned the side, Boston scored another trio of runs in the second, including Vern Stephens' two-run homer.

Gordon's ninth homer with one aboard and Ken Keltner's 10th circuit clout again deadlocked the count in the fourth inning, but the Indians fell behind when Dom DiMaggio clouted a round tripper in the sixth.

The loss cut Cleveland's first place margin to two games over the A's, who have nominated Dick Fowler to oppose Bearden in the opener of a crucial four-game series.

LANCASTER, June 18—Edward J. Sears, head coach at nearby Bremen High school the past three years, resigned today to enter business. His basketball team last season won 29 out of 30 games.

Factorymen, Potters Win Thursday to Move Up With Diner; Bliss Stays Warm

Mullins, Salem China and the Salem Diner are now knotted in second place in Salem's Class A softball league after Mullins and the China scored victories at West End park Thursday evening.

Mullins came through with a 4-1 margin over the National Sanitary while the China had an easy evening in beating the Recreation 12-4. In the other game last night revitalized Bliss came up with a surprise in edging the Saxons 8-6, the second win this week for Bliss.

Know Your Golf Shots Better

By HERMAN BARRON

Written for AP Newsfeatures

There are two things to remember in playing the No. 8 iron.

1—With this club your feet should be a little closer together than when using the longer irons.

2—Use a slightly open stance favoring the right foot. This is done by taking the left foot back about 2 or 3 inches from the square stance.

Another slight change in playing the 8 iron is in the pivot. Here the pivoting of your body is restricted somewhat as is the swing which becomes slightly shorter. But the club should still be gripped on the end.

As in all shots, the head should remain steady with your eyes on the ball throughout the entire swing.

Hitting was limited in the Mullins-Sanitary game, both teams managing only four each.

Ray McGaffie turned in a creditable hurling assignment as the China whipped the Recreation, allowing only three singles and having complete command all the stretch.

Jim Kleon's pitching won for Bliss, but the unusually warm bat heaved about by Martin "Peanuts" Debnar was the feature of the Bliss evening. The erstwhile Mullins and Recreation star, one of the old timers in the loop, continued to uphold an already well-earned batting reputation by blasting away for three safeties in four times at the plate. His pace has been gaining momentum, now at about the 300 mark.

WOLVES HOWLING FOR NEUN SCALP IN CINCINNATI

Red Manager Has Worries As Club Sinks To Next To Cellar Position

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK, June 18—The wolves were howling today for the graying scalp of Johnny Neun, chunky manager of the Cincinnati Reds, whose spring "wonders" were wondering whether they were going to fall right through the bottom of the National league.

In his second year as pilot of the Reds, the quiet Neun's hair has whitened along the sideburns.

"And it'll be a lot whiter than that before the season is over," he said ruefully.

Cushioned from the cellar floor by the inept Chicago Cubs, Neun was in no mood to let the howls go unanswered, and he wants his furious fans to know that if he ever gets the bandages off his ball club they'll get a good run for their money.

Certainly no team in the majors has had more trials and tribulations than the Reds.

The biggest blow, of course, was the early loss of Ewell Blackwell, his pitching stopper Blackwell had a pulled muscle, recovered from that has been bothered by his sinus and teeth so that he has been unable to regain his efficiency.

"On top of that, Tommy Hughes was suffering from bursts and Bucky Walters hurt his knee and had to be placed on the inactive list," Neun groaned. "Bucky's arm is coming around but he won't be ready until late in Ju."

"And I don't care what kind of strategy you use," he added, "if you can't stop those other guys from hitting, you can't win."

Neun admits that the pressure is on and that the responsibility has been laid in his lap.

All of which means that Neun has a terrific headache.

"One thing is sure," Johnny comforted himself. "There's no substitute for ball players."

Neun admits that he is on the biggest spot of his managerial career. His club was hotter than a two dollar pistol on the grapefruit circuit and now it's far off form.

His only hope is that the club gets a few breaks—"The kind without bandages!"

Washingtonville Plant To Expand

The L. D. Cochran Co. of Washingtonville has bought the equipment and physical assets except real estate of the Ohio Lantern Co. of Tiffin, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Tiffin plant's equipment now is being dismantled and moved to Washingtonville, where it will be set up, said L. D. Cochran of Youngstown, president of the concern.

The plant made screw caps for glass containers, such as fruit jars, while the Washingtonville plant makes metal stampings.

The Cochran plant now employs about 22 persons. Cochran said the new operations will "start very small" but he expects eventually to virtually double the Washingtonville plant's present employment as a result.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By JAMES D. WHITE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
(For Dewitt Mackenzie)

Malaya is in an uproar. This simple statement covers all the confusion of the British empire trying to get out of a tower of Babel (junior grade) in the midst of an outcropping of the Chinese civil war.

A state of emergency has been declared in four of the states of the new Malay federation. White planters and Chinese brokers are being killed, allegedly by Chinese Communists. Ten labor unions have been outlawed by decree. The death penalty has been proclaimed for anyone caught packing a gun without permission. Planters in some areas are being armed and their women and children ordered out to safety.

To get inside this picture, let's go back to 1942, when the Japanese army conquered the peninsula from the British, partly in a drive that advanced on bicycles.

After V-J Day the British came back. The Malayan sultans more or less welcomed them because they knew their own people were outnumbered by the huge Chinese and Indian minorities, imported long ago to work the tin mines and rubber plantations.

The British proposed a Malayan union, resigned to set Malaya free some day. The sultans signed up. Then they read the document and changed their minds. It would have given too much of their local power to their own central government, and besides would have made Malayan citizens out of the Chinese and Indians.

In the meantime a succession of strikes and other labor troubles had arisen. This was due partly to a Guerrilla army of several thousand men in the interior who had been fighting the Japanese.

This army was too big to be disarmed, and it was mostly Chinese. Many of these Chinese were communists and already they were organizing workers in tin mines, on rubber plantations and along the docks.

As the Malayan union plan displeased the sultans, the British produced a plan for the present federation. The sultans signed again, this time after reading for enough to see there was a provision which did not give equal rights to the Chinese and Indians.

Not only the Chinese left-wingers were sore about this. So were the rich middleman class of Chinese, who control much of Malaya's business, belong to the Kuomintang and contribute to Nanking's coffers.

Somewhat, recently, the alleged Communists in the interior have begun bumping off some of these Kuomintang middlemen. More recently they have begun shooting white planters.

What are the British doing? Here is the record for what it's worth. In addition to emergency measures in Malaya itself, they have sent Commissioner-General Malcolm MacDonald to Nanking where he talked with Chiang Kai-Shek about undisclosed matters. He also denied the statement of a British naval spokesman that H.B.M.'s Pacific fleet headquarters were being moved down to Singapore from Hong Kong.

When Malayan questions arose in Commons, a colonial office man in London said there was an organized campaign in Malaya to upset the economy through labor unrest. He declined, however, to confirm the statement of a foreign office source that the unrest is Communist inspired.

Censorship and lack of outside world interest have kept the news from Malaya at a minimum. This correspondent's file on Malaya, dating back three years, is the thinnest in his collection of world topics.

Until more is known about what goes on, and why, in one of the most strategic peninsulas in the world, the Malayan story will be about as easy to follow as the tea party scene in Alice In Wonderland.
